Volunteer Co-Editor

The Human Milk Banking Association of North America (HMBANA) is seeking a volunteer co-editor to help lead the development of the next edition of Best Practice for Expressing, Storing, and Handling Human Milk in Hospitals, Homes, and Childcare Settings. The co-editors will work collaboratively with HMBANA and subject-matter experts to guide this evidence-based publication from planning through completion. Work is expected to begin in late 2026 or early 2027.

Responsibilities

- Collaborate with the co-editor and staff to oversee the publication's scope, content, and development.
- Work with subject-matter experts serving as chapter authors.
- Review and edit content for accuracy, clarity, consistency, and current best practices.
- Keep the project and contributing authors on schedule.

Qualifications

- Strong writing and editorial skills, with ability to translate scientific and clinical information into clear guidance.
- Pediatric hospital based clinical experience or substantial knowledge of intensive care unit clinical practice.
- Knowledge of maternal and donor human milk, including current evidence and best practices.
- Strong organizational and communication skills with the ability to meet deadlines.
- Professional, clinical, and/or scholarly publication experience preferred.
- Must be based in the United States or Canada.

Conflict of Interest

Applicants must meet HMBANA's conflict of interest requirements and support the International Code of Marketing of Breast-milk Substitutes and subsequent relevant World Health Assembly resolutions. Consistent with HMBANA policy, applicants must not have had employment or a relationship with the commercial infant formula industry or a for-profit milk bank within the past five years. Relevant industry relationships will be reviewed as part of the selection process.

Time Commitment

This is a volunteer, unpaid position. The anticipated time commitment is: 2-3 hours per week for about one year.

To Apply

Submit a CV or resume and a brief statement of interest to kadi@hmbana.org by November 30, 2026. A letter of reference is preferred.

HMBANA encourages applications from individuals with diverse backgrounds, perspectives, experiences, and expertise.
